THURSDAY, March 18.

The stock market continues to reflect conflicting views as to its immediate future. This difference of opinion has resulted so far in a gradually broadening market, and it also seems plain that the majority of operators or the more substantial interests are favorably disposed to the long side. The volume of past and the distribution of the transactions indicated an increasing interest in securities. The market changed its course two or three times during the day, but final figures show that in spite of sales to realize profits and efforts in certain quarters to depress prices, the underlying tendency is upward. In the early dealings the market for Sugar Refining was influenced favorably by an advance of an eighth of a cent a pound in refined sugars. Shortly before the close of business a reduction of the same fraction was announced, and in consequence Sugar Refining, which was more extensively dealt in than any other stock, lost the activity, was the strongest of the usually active stocks. It was currently reported that the only aggressive competitor of the combined Chicago gas companies, and it has never been a very important one, will soon cease aggressive operations. New York Central was also conspicuously strong, on reports that decided progress has been made toward funding at a lower rate of interest bonds of the company that mature in the near future. prices, in Pacific Mail, based upon the near anproach to the time when, in all probability, a second semi-annual dividend upon the stock will be declared. Other noteworthy not declines point in Reading, of 1 $\psi$ cent, in C., C., C. and St. Louis, and nearly 3 V cent. in United States Rubber preferred. Operators who favor lower prices endeavored to make capital out of the fact that the syndicate which underwrote the Reading plan of reorganization is to be dissolved April 1. > reasons advanced for the recession in prices during the afternoon. Minor features were a revival of interest in Southern Railway preferred, which accompanied the publication of trustworthy reports regarding the decided improvement in business that is taking place throughout the South, and the liquidation by traders of some of their ventures in American Spirits. As that stock has not moved in unison with the greater part of the list, small speculative bolders who are generally impatient at the seeming slowness with which important trade developments are brought about, threw over their holdings. After they had done so the stock promptly rallied to about the final figure of yesterday. Among the interesting news of the day was a detailed statement issued by the receivers of the Baltimore and Ohio Ballroad showing expenditures by them during the eleven mouths ending Feb. 1 of $7,000,000 for additions to the company's equipment and for betterments. The fact that the greater part of this money has been expended for equipment may explain to an extent the recent increase to the company's traffic receipts.

Prices fluctuated within an extremely narrow range to-day, without decided tendency cithir way. The trading was confined mainly to local scalpers, and at the close prices were practically unchanged from last night's final quotations. Early in the day prices were slightly indeed. Liverpool was higher, both for futures and spots, the receipts at the ports were light, the Westiner Bureau's daily bulletin showed that the Mississippi was still rising, and there was very little disposition to sell, so that on a small demand prices advanced. After the first transactions, however, prices reserved and slowly receded in sympathy with a resertion in liverpool. The exports from the ports were liberal and the spot markets were firm.
